

How to perform Daily Stock Count Every morning, you will get a pop-up in KUJA, asking you to perform a physical stock count, and compare it with the records in the system. This daily check ensures that your warehouse inventory and KUJA always match. If the numbers match, simply click Stock Matches and then click Yes Proceed. If the stock does not match, select the brand, use the plus and minus button to adjust your stock, and click Resolve Description and select Reason for the Change. For an unrecorded transaction, select the right transaction. For a product loss, select the right box. For a product sale, click on the drop-down. Then search or enter the customer name. Enter the quantity you sold. And select the date. For a breakage, enter the quantity lost. Select the date and click Done. You can also select and enter any other stocks that are not accurate. Repeat the same process. Click Save and then click Yes, Apply Adjustment. Doing this every morning keeps your records accurate, helps you manage your stock properly, and makes processing customer orders much smoother.
